JGSS-2003 Self-administered Questionnaire B

The Project of "Gakujutsu-Frontier Suishinkyoten" (a key institute on the frontiers of academic projects) supported by the Ministry of Education, Culture, Sports, Science and Technology of Japan

International Comparative Survey on Values and Behavioral Patterns

Oct., 2003

Interview: To be filled out by the interviewer

To interviewers

Procedures for conducting this survey (Questionnaire B)

- Begin this questionnaire (Questionnaire B) after having completed the interview with the Interview Questionnaire (in beige).
- Before starting, transcribe the response to Q1-1 (i.e., whether the respondent worked last week) written on the Interview Questionnaire to the column on page 1 of Questionnaire B .
- Q1 through Q4 will be asked during the interview, and the answers are to be written down by the interviewer.
- The interviewer should hand the respondent a worksheet to write down some necessary information for him/herself so he/she can refer back to the memo when answering questions.
- After the questions for the first section (Q1 - Q4) of Questionnaire B are completed, check if there are any questions in the self-administered section (Q5 - Q7) that are not needed to be answered (by the respondent). If there are, cross out those questions on the questionnaire (see instructions on page 7).
- Ask the respondent to fill out the questionnaire in the self-administered section.

How to use the worksheet

- In principle, the interviewer must not look at the memo written by the respondent on the worksheet. However, if the respondent showed it to the interviewer by way of explanation or for confirmation, he/she may look at it at his/her own discretion.
- The worksheet used during the interview will be needed again later for the respondent to answer the questions in the self-administered section. Therefore, the interviewer should tell the respondent to keep it with Questionnaire B.
- The worksheet should not be collected. When collecting the questionnaire (Questionnaire B), the interviewer must check to make sure that the worksheet is not attached or inserted, and if it is, return it to the respondent.

Read aloud the sentences written in black and those within quotation marks.

Red words are instructions for the interviewer. Conduct the interview and write down the information according to the directions.

To be filled out by the interviewer

Enter the length of time spent to complete the interview for Q1 through Q4 in the blank below.
 Note: Calculate the time from the beginning of the interview to the moment of handing the questionnaire sheet to the respondent.

Q1 'I'm going to ask you about the people you often talk to. First, please think of the people with whom you discuss matters important to you or those in whom you confide.'

Hand the worksheet to the respondent.

'Write down their names, initials or nicknames in the blanks A through D so that you can identify them afterwards.

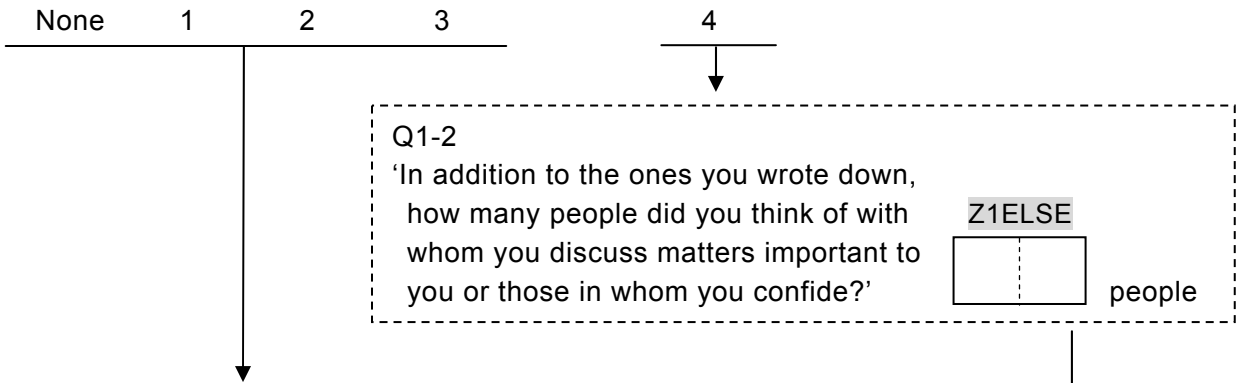

Write down up to four names. If you cannot think of four, write down as many as you can. If you cannot think of anybody, you do not have to write down anything on the paper.'

Check if the respondent has finished writing on the worksheet.

Q1-1 'How many names (or initials, etc.) did you write down?'

Circle the number that applies.

Q1-3 'Which of the Boxes A through D are blanks?'

Mark an x in each of the blank boxes below. When the number of x's and the number of people mentioned in the answer to Q1-1 do not add up to '4,' check the answers to Q1-1 and Q1-3 again.

In case of the answer to Q1-1 being '0' or '1,' circle '4. Not applicable' to all questions below. If the respondent said he/she had five or more people, ask about the four people, named as A, B, C and D.

Interview: To be filled out by the interviewer

Show the respondent the following 'example worksheet' ([Example 1]) and say 'As shown in this example, draw a line between the boxes representing the same person on your worksheet.'

If no boxes represent the same person, go to the next page.

[Example 1]

Q4 'Which boxes did you connect with a line? Reply using the letters of the boxes. Refer to [Example 2].

Code
Notes for interviewers: No need to fill out

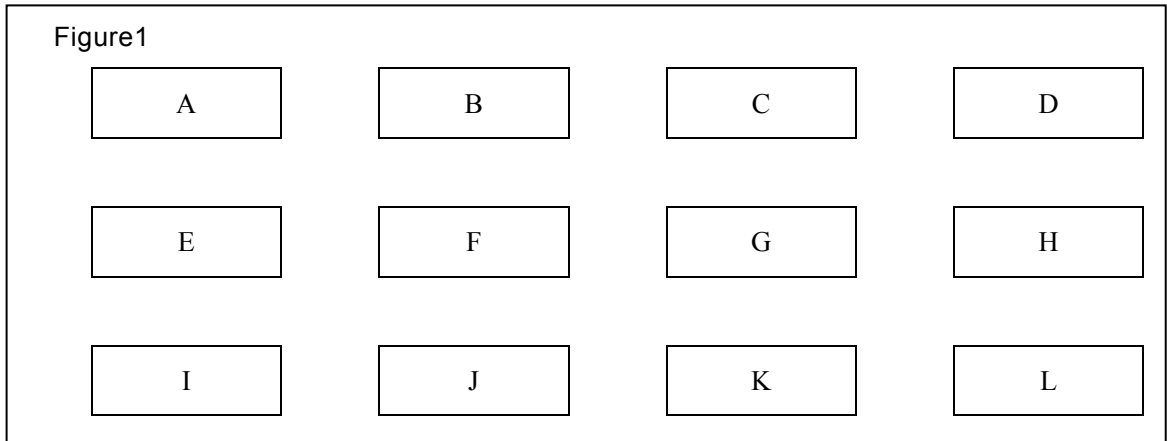

- ZSAME1 (1) ____, ____ and ____ represent the same person.
- ZSAME2 (2) ____, ____ and ____ represent the same person.
- ZSAME3 (3) ____, ____ and ____ represent the same person.
- ZSAME4 (4) ____, ____ and ____ represent the same person.
- ZSAME5 (5) ____, ____ and ____ represent the same person.
- ZSAME6 (6) ____, ____ and ____ represent the same person.

[Example 2]

For the diagram of [Example 1]

A, F and J represent the same person.
C, L and ____ represent the same person.
G, I and ____ represent the same person.
 ____, ____ and ____ represent the same person.

Looking at the above answers, connect the boxes representing the same person with a line in the diagram below. When it is completed, show the figure below to the respondent. Let the respondent check that the figure is the same as that on the worksheet. If it is not, ask the respondent to answer the above questions again to correct the figure.

'This is the end of the interview. Please fill out the rest of this questionnaire by yourself. Based on your answers during the interview, I will now cross out the questions you do not need to answer. So please wait one moment while I do that.'

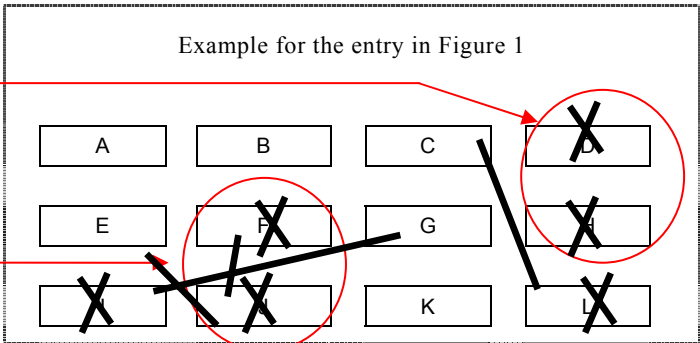

This is the end of the interview section. Before handing the self-administered section, complete the following process.

◆ Place an X in Figure 1 on the previous page, as explained in the following directions (1) and (2).

[Example 3]

(1) Put x marks according to the replies to Q1-3, 2-3 and 3-3.

(2) For the letters connected by a line, leave the first letter and cross out the rest. For instance, in case that A is connected with F and J, cross out F and J, and leave A as it is. In the same way, put x marks on I and L.

As for Q5, 6 and 7 (on the Self-administered Questionnaire), the respondent does not have to answer the questions about the people in figure 1 who are crossed out (It is not necessary to reply twice concerning the same person. Therefore, those boxes should be crossed out to avoid duplication.). Before handing the questionnaire to the respondent, the interviewer should cross out all questions for such cases (refer to [Example 4]).

In addition, if the respondent did not work last week (i.e., the reply to the very first question about whether the respondent worked last week or not is '3. I did not work?'), cross out all questions in Q7.

[Example 4]

Q6-4 How long have you known them? How many years ago did you get to know them? Approximate number of years is acceptable.

E ↓ [] yrs. ago	F ↓ [] yrs. ago	G ↓ [] yrs. ago	H ↓ [] yrs. ago
------------------------	-------------------------------------	------------------------	-------------------------------------

Q6-5 How often do you talk with them (including phone calls and e-mails)?

E ↓	F ↓	G ↓	H ↓
Almost everyday -----	-----	-----	-----
Several times a week -----	-----	-----	-----
About once a week -----	-----	-----	-----
About once a month -----	-----	-----	-----
Several times a year -----	-----	-----	-----

Check carefully that all necessary information is filled in and that x's are correctly placed on the parts where replies are not required.

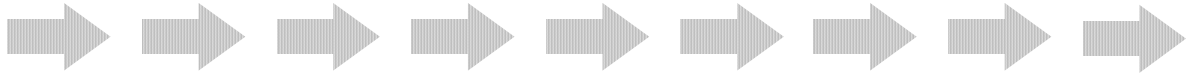

Return to the bottom of page 2, write down the finish time and the time spent, and then hand the questionnaire to the respondent.

'Please answer the questions Q5 through Q7 referring to what you have already written down on the worksheet. Clip the worksheet to the questionnaire to make sure that it does not get misplaced.'

Give a clip to the respondent.

'You do not have to answer the questions I have crossed out.'

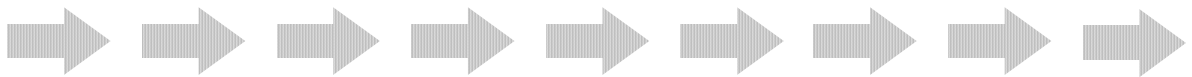

'Now I will leave the questionnaire to you. Please fill out the rest of the questionnaire when it is convenient to you.'

Start from the next page.

Please refer to your memo on the worksheet.

You do not have to answer the questions that the interviewer has crossed out.

The following questions are about the people with whom you discuss matters important to you or those in whom you confide (A, B, C, and D). Please refer to your memo on the worksheet when answering the questions.
